

Elf on the Shelf

I have had so much fun being a part of your family for the last month. You guys sure have a lot of fun around here. Sorry for any messes I made along the way. Guess I got caught up in the fun too!

As much fun as my visit has been and as much fun as tomorrow morning will be, I hope that you remember the true reason for the season. Christmas is Jesus's Birthday and it is a wonderful time to be reminded to embrace family, community, giving, sharing and joy. As the holiday season passes, let these things live in your heart.

Tonight when you go to sleep a little Christmas magic is going to happen. I will fly back to the North Pole for the last time this year. I will make my last report to Santa before he gets on his sleigh and heads around the world to spread Christmas cheer. When you wake up tomorrow morning I will be gone and presents will be under the tree.

I know there will be presents, because I have told Santa all about what good children you are. I passed on all of your messages to the big guy and I know he will do his best to find the perfect presents for you.

Lucky for us Santa will lift my magic for just a few minutes after you are done reading this letter. In those few minutes it will be okay to touch me, hug me and kiss me goodbye. When you are finished with your goodbyes just put me back where you found me and I will find my way to the North Pole tonight. Can't wait to see you next Christmas season!

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year!

Love,
